

Jodie Hulden

Photographer of the Month

January 2018

Jodie Hulden is our January 2018 Photographer of the Month. She goes beyond the travel photographer, as she has with this collection from her month long stay at Zion National Park. Her view of nature is unique. Her pictures always have a story and this collection is printed not in her usual black & white style, but a pastel style, very interesting. Come take a look this month.

A reception for our photographer will be on Thursday, January 18, 2018 5:30pm to 6:30pm, refreshments will be served.

A FEW WORDS FROM JODIE

“Jodie Hulden is a San Diego-based artist whose contemplative photography focuses on intimate landscapes and still life. She has a degree in art from San Diego State University, but discovered her passion for photography in the 1970’s, doing film and darkroom work. She transitioned to digital photography in 2001. Jodie has studied with George DeWolfe, Carlan Tapp, Michael Frye, Brett Erickson and Susan Burnstine. She recently completed a month-long artist-in-residency at Zion National Park in 2017.
